

A photograph of a Lochnivar Knight XL 600 boiler installed in a utility room. The boiler is a grey, rectangular unit with a control panel on top. It is connected to a complex network of copper and white plastic pipes. A large red cylindrical tank is mounted on the wall above the boiler. The room has white walls and a concrete floor.

Lochnivar Knight XL
600

Supply
&
Return Primary loop

Supply
&
Return Manifolds

EPDM Tubing being installed

Tubing stapled every 4"

Covering with ground fabric

